EX LIBRIS

OUR ACORN . . . .

COAL is our theme for this book for today, A book to be cherished and loved; The Acorn we'll turn to when aged and gray, No matter how far we have roved.

Our coal has been placed with a lavish hand, Mother Nature has been very kind, She has given us coal, gas, oil, and good land— More riches would be hard to find.

Oak Hill is our school, and like the oak tree, Whose roots reach far down in the earth, Our school is deep rooted, is honored and free, As free as the land of our birth.

We play fair and square, and sometimes we win, But often we fall by the way, For neither counts much, a loss is no sin, But only "How did you play?"

And so we march on, we're a thousand strong, With a will to dare and to do, We'll keep to the right, and we can never go wrong, Oak Hill High, if we're loyal to you.

Attie M. Harvey

DEDICATIONTo the Man whose living here gives Oak Hill life, and upon whom its destiny rests, we dedicate this volume of "The Acorn."

THE MINER

FOREWORD

" . . . we shall smile."— Brutus

And so, as the miner, toiling a thousand feet under the earth, brings from their deep seclusion the black riches that sustain the beat of life in our land, we endeavored to gather here the associations, the friendships, and the half-noted happenings of these pleasant hours, so that, as we turn these pages in the years that are to come, we may charm from their hiding places in recollection these faint-forgotten treasures and chastened and renewed—may recall old scenes and tell old tales, hear dim-remembered laughter, and weep a little for Memory and smile again for Hope.

IN MEMORIAM

BERNARD WILSON HOLSTEIN (1920-1938)

Bernard Holstein played every game, fought every fight, even to his last, in a way that showed he was always ready for life; so death did not find him shirking. His friends were many; his enemies were few. Every friend found him to be a friend indeed, true and staunch. Every opponent respected him. Our sorrow in his going is not for him; he has but taken one step higher. It is for ourselves—we have lost a man and a friend.

And gladly would he learn and gladly teach
— Chaucer, Prologue to the Canterbury Tales.

OAK HILL HIGH SCHOOL BAND

OFFICERS

MOTE THOMPSON, President CLARA MAY MARTIN, Secretary and Treasurer

HARRY ALTIZER, Vice-president PAUL G. MACKEY, Director

The Oak Hill High School Band was organized in 1935 by Paul G. Mackey, its present director. Prior to that time about four students played wind instruments. Interest grew each year until at present there are 125 receiving instruction on wind instruments. The Concert Band is limited to sixty of the better musicians while the remaining ones form the Preparatory Band.

From its beginning the band has been sponsored by the Red Devil Post of the American Legian in Oak Hill. Through its efforts and the support given it by the community the band has been furnished with uniforms and the larger instruments.

Each year three concerts are given to the general public—one on Christmas, one in February and one during National Music Week. Besides these appearances it plays for football games, various community activities, concerts in nearby towns, and participates in the Annual County Band Festival. Since its organization the band has entered the State Band Festival every year. In 1936 it won the state champianship in Class C.

1938 FOOTBALL LETTER MEN

FIRST ROW

CASIMIR KISKI, Right End
Casimir, who has been on the squad for four years, has proved himself a good sport and has helped the team in every way that he

STANLEY ALBERCHINSKI, Fullback
Stanley, the triple threat back known as the
"Galloping Alphabet", has gained recognition as a punter and a line plunger. He was awarded a gold football for his outstanding playing in the Mount Hope-Oak Hill game,
and was chosen All Fayette County Fullback.

JAMES LIVELY, Quarterback
Jimmie, a fast dependable player, has just completed his brilliant record in Oak Hill

HOBART BOOTH, Right Guard
Every good foatball player should have a strain of wickedness in his blood, and Hobart Booth has it; but he plays the game as it should be played.

"Louie" has been a steady and dependable end, one of the main cogs in the Red Devil gridiron machine.

ERNEST FAZIO, Left Halfback
"Ernie" is a steady, brilliant player. He is one of the smallest men on the team, but gave an excellent performance in the safety position.

SECOND ROW

ALBERT GRABLICK, Left Halfback Because of injuries Albert saw little action this season, but he will add much power to the squad this coming year.

RAYMOND PRATER, Right Halfback Raymond is tough and plucky, a player who should aid the team immeasurably next year.

THIRD ROW

PAUL MILLER, Center and End
Paul is able to hold dawn twa pasitians an
the squad because of his consistently good playing.

FRANK FAZIO, Left Tackle and Fullback Frank's weight aided him in tackling on the defense and blocking on the offense. When he hit a line it collapsed. His excellent place kicking helped the team considerably.

FOURTH ROW

FRANK GIGLIA, Right End Frank is a valuable prop to the Devils' forewall.

KENNETH LEGG, Center
"Horse" as a center has been truly superior.
He is one of the most consistent players on the squad.

FIFTH ROW

WILSON COOPER, Left Guard
In spite of being the lightest and smallest player on the team, Wilson, to the Devils,
was a mighty bulwark in times of distress.
Playing in one of the toughest positions, he labared like a Trojan for the success of his team.

SIXTH ROW

JOE STEGEL, Right End Joe is ever alert and vigilant, the smartest end on the squad.

SAM MULLINS, Right Tackle
Sam, that deadly tackle, was chosen honorary captain of the Red Devil team, All Fayette County Tackle, and All Southern Conference Tackle.

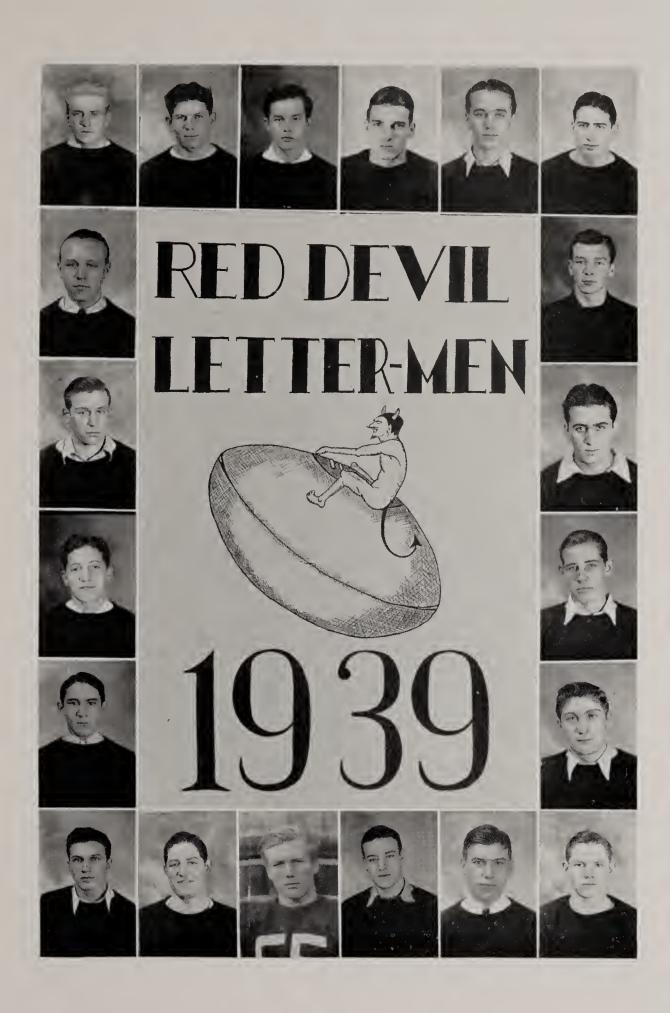

BILL FUQUA, Right Halfback
Bill was not a grandstand player, but his blocking, tackling, and interference helped the team many times.

JACK HOWELL, Center and Right End A good blocker and tackle, Jack is expected to add power to the Red Devil line next year.

JOHN DUDA, Center and Right End John occupied the position of utility man on the team, but performed most brilliantly at the pivot.

Delbert's ability on the cinder path stood him in good stead on the gridiron.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

Twenty years have passed since the night of May 24, 1939, when my classmates and I were graduated from Oak Hill High School. Time has made me worldly wise, but I wonder what has happened to the class of '39.

While my ship is being conditioned for a world tour, I wait in New York. As I walk down the avenue, I meet Kenneth Robertson and Eugene Nehls who are now in the retail trade business. Kenneth's wife, the former Eileen Frisby, tells me that Andrew Hindson and his wife, formerly Freda Harris, are now conducting a flourishing business in horticulture. Later in the evening I notice that Eunice Dooley, now married to Charles "Chic" Smith, is one of the entertainers in an exclusive night club. "Chic" is chauffeur for Frederick Smith, a prominent politician who was recently defeated by a small margin in the race for Mayor of New York. Next I journey out to see the preparations being made for the 1960 International Exposition, and there I find Marvin Dillon ta be the chief engineer. He tells me that the man swinging Tarzan-like doing the 3000 foot lighting is Paul Allman. I take a cab ta Greenwich Village to see my old friend Almeda Mullins, now a famous artist. With her is her former model, Edna Lamb.

As I climb aboard my ship I see a strangely familiar face. Yes, it is! John Burmer, naw U. S. Foreign Minister to Brazil. The captain calls "All ashore", and we set sail for Bermuda. In this sunny land of almost make-believe whom should I see waiting to transport the transients but that faatball star of high school days, Jimmy Lively, who tells me that he was jilted by Maxine Thabet not many years before when she made a daring runaway marriage with Walker Amole.

That night while strolling around the island I chance upon a typical island entertainment, and there are Helen Stobinsky, Roy Lee, and Rabert Smith providing the music. Incidentally, I am surprised to find two old school pals, Clarence Dickerson and Bill Amick just too, too interested in the dancers.

The next day I set sail for Puerto Rico, and find aboard Charles Titlow and Mary Frances Warden who anly a few days before became "Mr. and Mrs." Charles, now the millionaire owner of the Greyhound Bus Company, is taking his wife on a tropical honeymoon. Didn't he have quite a crush an Charlatte Samples back in thase dear ald school days? Inquiring as to her whereabouts, I hear that she has become a fareign diplomat who has no time far men!

We sail by Haiti, the Bahamas, and land in Cuba. Coming out an a small baat are two of my best-remembered friends, Frances Jones and Wandaleen Kincaid, who as policewomen are reorganizing Cuba. They have recently received letters from Ruth Dotson and Evelyn Allen. Ruth is running the nationally famous Glen Jean Hotel and Evelyn is the devoted wife of Woodrow Bragg.

On through the Panama Canal and westward we sail to Hawaii. On my way to the hotel I notice a poster advertising the moving picture "My Great Love" starring Robert Lewis and Wanda Treadway.

After a week's stay in Hawaii, I go to Japan where I find Dorothy Bush teaching English in a university. She tells me that Ruby Foster is a missionary in China and Vivian, her sister, is daing the same kind of work in India. Laurels to these gallant girls! In Shanghai, I meet Lillian Gwinn, naw a world-wide news commentator.

The next stop is Africa, where I visit the Kimberly Diamond Mines. Marjorie Gibson is married to the grandnephew of a causin of the owner and is quite the cream of society. Garnette Ford is the manager of one section of the mines, and is doing very well for herself.

I toke o trip by boot up the Congo River into the heort of the jungle ond, wonder of wonders, run ocross Mary Robertson and Thelmo Wilkerson who ore moking a fortune from lion skins, alligotor teeth, and elephont tusks. Ohhhhhh! whot o narrow escape we had. Fuming madly, a wild boor rushed from the jungle, but o shower of bullets at once pierced the beost. Our rescuers? Howard Miller, Johnny Rogers, and Grover Stinnett. They are on on expedition seorching for Lowrence Wilmer ond his wife, Ruby Burdette, who were lost when their plane crashed somewhere in the African jungles.

The heot in Africa soon drove me to a cooler climate. I chose the Alps. There I wos cordially greeted by a club mode up of old classmotes in O.H.H.S., Phyllis Cruise, Virginio Cash, Vivion Bishop, Leona and Marjorie Painter. They are running a resort hotel, and have brought over from America the well-known guitorist Willie Frisby who is accomponied on the drums by her husbond, Oother McClung. On my first trip to learn to ski, I was amozed to find among the teachers Casimir Kiski, Som Holdren, and Johnny Hottle. After colliding with the Thompson twins on my way down the hill I was taken to a hospital where my slight injuries received attention from those competent doctors, Stuart Blake and Dynarl Broughman. I occepted their invitation to coll on their wives, Evo Amick and Anno Huddleston, and spent o pleasant tea hour in their homes.

My visit hos been rother prolonged and I om ready to journey homeward. I cross the Atlantic by plane. Our pilot is that studious boy of school days, George Johnson, and the co-pilot is Gerald Ferguson. Gerald very happily tells of his wonderful wife, the former Helen Tygrett. Our air-hostess is Faye Stewart.

From New York, where I met my husbond, we take the "Flying Express", on which James Painter is brokeman. James informs us of his approaching morriage to Dorothy Amick, a clerk in a Charleston store. He olso tells us that Dorothy Day, Marjorie Dodd, Mildred Nichols, and Nellie Simmons ore stote house employees in Charleston.

We change trains at Washington and hove a rother long wait there. Deciding to do a little sight seeing, we pay a short call at the White House where Rose Mary Richardson is the president's private secretory. As we are leaving, we catch a glimpse of the "First Lady" and are surprised to recognize Ogania Rodgers as her traveling companion. We stop in a highly social gothering and find Dorothy Lemons, Iono Miller, and Pouline Mullins, all of whom are married to government officials. We also see Soroh Lewis who is now a notionally famous poet.

Bock at the stotion we buy our tickets to Ook Hill from Arthur Chopman, who is employed there. In the dining cor that evening we notice sitting across from us Jane Callison and her husbond, a famous doctor, who ore returning to Oak Hill for a visit with their porents.

At last we orrive in Oak Hill! Lillian Tropaso is monaging o smoll dress shop. Ardean Segraves is the chief of police. Thelmo Legg, Hortense Pointer, and Agnes Miller are all teaching in Ook Hill. We run into Ethel Miller Novicki who has come to "hop on" one of the teochers becouse little Johnny got spanked. The next doy we take some clothes to the dry cleoners and find Norma Jean Mortino ot the counter. Her husband owns the concern where he was once on employee. Martha Davis is hoppily married and living on a farm near Oak Hill. Opol Davis is also living in Ook Hill, and has a husky family of little Vargos. Zokah Yocum De Quasie and Frances Broyles Boothe, who entered motrimony during their last year of high school, also reside in the vicinity.

And so we learn that the class of '39 hos scattered here and there, but oll hove fitted into some walk of life. All seemed happy, and we hope that through the remaining portion of their lives peoce and happiness will be theirs to the end.

Not the greatest ... not the largest ... but an organization devoted to a principle of excellence. For more than three decades hundreds of yearbook editors and business managers have placed their faith in our ability to help them design, publish, and finance unusual yearbooks...Just old-fashioned in principle, but with a very definite flare for the best in modern publication trends!
